ORGANIZED BY THE
HONG KONG JOURNALISTS ASSOCIATION
FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS' CLUB, HONG KONG
AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL HONG KONG

See www.hkja.org.hk, www.fcchk.org and www.amnesty.org.hk

OBJECTIVES AND CRITERIA

The goal of the Human Rights Press Awards is to create increased respect for the basic rights of all people, heighten general awareness of human rights issues and, where threats to those freedoms exist, to focus attention upon them. Judges look for originality, professionalism, amount of effort, depth of understanding of issues and, where relevant, courage on the part of the journalists or publisher.

To be eligible, a submission must address a specific area covered by the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and relate to Hong Kong or the Asian region.

Submissions are sought in both English and Chinese. They will be assessed by separate panels of distinguished judges. Photographs will be judged jointly. Material published online can be submitted.

ELIGIBILITY

The competition is open to journalists in both print and electronic media. Submissions must have been produced either by journalists for publication or broadcast in Hong Kong or Macau, or by correspondents working in the Asian region for overseas news organizations.

All prizes are awarded to individuals, not to organizations, except in specified categories. Organizations may submit articles on behalf of their employees. Readers and viewers may nominate work they feel is worthy of attention, but for print articles they must supply a copy of the article. For broadcast nominations they must provide the date, time and station on which the work was aired. For articles published online, please provide hard copies.

Each entry must cite the specific Article(s) of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights that the work seeks to address. Any submission failing to include this citation will be disqualified. The Universal Declaration can be viewed at <http://www.un.org/Overview/rights.html>

JUDGING AND AWARDS

The judging of articles, cartoons and programs will be done by panels of distinguished judges drawn from the fields of journalism, academia and human rights. Photography entries will be judged by a separate expert panel. The judges award prizes at their discretion, and may reassign submissions to categories or create additional categories as they see fit.

The winners will be announced and prizes awarded at the Awards Ceremony in April 2013 at the Foreign Correspondents' Club in Central. All applicants are welcome and lunch will be provided.

These awards are given not only to recognize outstanding effort that increases public appreciation of human rights issues, but also to honor journalistic work of the highest competency.
